AL JENNINGS HOT AFTER "CROOKS" WHO HE SAYS CHEATED HIM OUT OF VICTORY

Al Jennings.

Though defeated in his race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, Al Jennings, former outlaw and train robber, continues to be a factor in public life in Oklahoma. He has just announced that he has started down a trail that will cause trouble to many politicians; that he will contest the primary election nomination, as he believes there was ballot stealing; that he will do his utmost to send the alleged election thieves to the penitentiary, and that he will take the stump during the fall campaign in an effort to arouse the voters of Oklahoma to an understanding of the crookedness he alleges exists in the public life of Oklahoma.

MORE THAN EVER A BEAUTY SHOW

Women Dominate Circus Acts as Never Before — Female Pulchritude Rivals Broadway Musical Comedy Production.

The Bornum and Bailey circus is more than ever "a beauty show" this season. Never before have women dominated the circus programme as they do in this year's program and the display of feminine pulchritude rivals a Broadway musical comedy production. With the circus there is a beautiful woman who twitters about on a high wire with the same ease that Tetrazzini attains high C, and in accomplishing this there is no reason to believe, according to Miss Bird Millman, that she is not serving the purpose of art. Here a pretty, ambitious girl chooses for her life work and accomplishment a wire strung in mid-air. This is just as hard to understand as to explain the kink in the mind of a man who decides to dedicate himself and his energies to the snare drum. Miss Millman contributes one of the startling features to this year's circus program, and when she isn't thrilling circus audiences, finds time and delight in being interviewed. "To some folks a slack wire is their idea of nothing to walk on. To me, it's a whole street, with curbing and pavement thrown in."

"When I was eight years old, father noticed that I had a way of ignoring the earth, and nalled a wire from a window sill at one side of the room to a window sill at the other side, and my career began."

"It's great exercise, fine for the health and beauty. Nothing equals it. One may talk about the advantages of swimming and walking, mine for the wire. It steadies the nerves like a sedative, makes the mind as alert as a bird's wings and quickens one's instinct for space and distance."

It is entertaining to realize that Miss Millman regards her work as art of a very high character. Art, which should be above the sneers and quibbles of the person "in front" and requires what most other brands of art makes no requisition upon—physical courage. The circus brings many novelties this year, and in addition to the acrobatic features presents as a gratuitous addition a gorgeous spectacle entitled, "The Wizard Prince of Arabia". Over 1,000 people take part including a ballet of 100 dancing girls. Two performances and a street parade will be given in Phoenix, Monday, Sept. 21st.

YUMA-PHOENIX ROAD CONGRESS

Supervisors and Delegates From Maricopa and Yuma Counties to Meet at Agua Caliente to Arrange for Road Improvement.

A definite move in the long contemplated repairing of the Phoenix-Yuma road is to be made on Sunday, when the president of the board of trade and members of the roads committee, together with the supervisors, will meet in conclave the supervisors and delegates of the commercial organizations of Yuma county at Agua Caliente on the line of the two counties.

Secretary Harry Welch, of the board of trade yesterday received a telegram dated Yuma, Sept. 15th, and signed L. W. Alexander, announcing that delegates from the commercial club of Yuma, and three county supervisors would be present at the meeting. Without losing more time Harry Welch began fixing things up. Over the phone he got assurances of their attendance from State Engineer Lamar Cobb and Secretary of State Sidney P. Osborn. The governor announced that much to his regret he had already an engagement for the day. Harry Welch is anxious to get all the supervisors and at least six members of the roads committee in, on the trip.

The party will go down to Caliente by automobile on Saturday afternoon and the meeting is called for 10:00 a. m. Sunday. The return will be made in the afternoon. This movement is regarded as the final step towards the improvement of this important highway.

Maricopa's supervisors will attend as they have been anxious for this meeting for some time.

"Lady Betty Martingale" is the title of the new comedy written for Mrs. Plake by John Luther Long and Frank Stanton.

Everybody Is Supposed to Ditch the Old Straw Lid Today—All Stores Carry Special Hat Display of New Fall Goods.

Any citizen of Phoenix who comes down town this morning wearing a straw hat is making himself liable to some considerable treatment from the Wednesday Hat Day club which will be lined up on each side of the street to hand it to the tardy adherents to the fall season. This is the avowed purpose of the organization. The summer season is officially ended. Fall is here, and winter is on the way and it behooves not the citizen to continue wearing the mementoes of summer.

Most Phoenixians are glad when the fall comes and many of them are quite anxious to ditch the old straw headpiece for something that is more reminding of the season of the year. There will however be some who fail to take advantage of the opportunity to get in the swim early, and it is these fellows that the club is avowedly after.

All the stores of the city will have on display today assortments of the latest styles in hats, hats for short and tall, thin and fat, narrow and wide, round or square. The chance is here. Get a Hat! Get a Hat! Get a Hat!

NEW YORK STORE BUYERS BACK FROM STYLE CENTERS

Mrs. Kirkland and Mrs. Hill Purchase Handsome Stock for New Establishment

Fresh from the big markets of the country, Mrs. Kate Kirkland, millinery buyer for the New York Store, and Mrs. Hill, buyer for the ladies' suit and ready to wear department of the same establishment, arrived in Phoenix yesterday morning. For six weeks Mrs. Kirkland and Mrs. Hill have been in Chicago and New York, commissioned by the Korrick to spare no pains or expense to insure the receipt here of a stock of goods in their particular lines that, when exposed to view in the new New York Store about October 1, will be second to none west of the Rocky Mountains.

Long before these two women returned to Phoenix, the stock they were engaged in purchasing began to arrive here, and daily now the Wells Fargo & Company Express is bringing further consignments of goods, ordered by them. None of these goods can be displayed to advantage until the day when the doors of the handsome new Korrick building are thrown open to the public. The date for the opening of the new home of the Korrick has now been pretty definitely placed at October 1. In the meantime, however, the new goods may be secured at the present New York Store.

OREGONIAN MAN'S FIRST VISIT TO PHOENIX

Dean Collins of Editorial Staff of Northwest's Chief Newspaper

Dean Collins of the editorial staff of the Portland Oregonian is in the city spending his vacation. This is his first appearance in this part of the country and after the manner of most visitors he revised his opinion of the valley after coming into it. He will remain here until Thursday.

Speaking of the effect of the war on conditions in the northwest, Mr. Collins said that the fruit industry had been seriously affected. In the first place, there is no apparent outlet for the prune crop whose chief market had been Germany. The markets for the famous Hood River and Rogue river apples still remains but there is no way of reaching them as Mr. Collins discovered on making inquiry of the fruit exchange at Portland. The principal markets for Oregon apples seems on the east coast of South America. It was brought out that hitherto fruit for those markets, shipped by the way of Cape Horn had been sent to London and transhipped to South American ports by Leyland steamers which since the war have not been making those ports with regularity.

It is probable though that with a reorganization of shipping lines since the opening of the Panama canal, cargoes from the Pacific coast will be sent directly to their destination.

Mr. Collins made the journey down the coast by steamer. He noticed an absence of shipping, due probably to a fear of the German cruiser Leipzig whose movements are as mysterious as those of the Flying Dutchman. All talk of the passengers was of the Leipzig. The stateroom companion of Mr. Collins was a German who had been naturalized. He had his papers to show his newer citizenship and was also provided with denaturalization papers. Said he: "If the Leipzig holds us up she cannot take me off."
